Wattamolla

July 16th 2021

After breakfast Faye and I went down to Wattamolla. It was once again fairly quiet though we did run into Steve Anyon-Smith and Tom Kristensen and we also saw John Prats! They were also out exercising! Just like us!!!

These images of part of a larger flock of Yellow-tailed Black Cockatoos had them checking out the burnt area north of Wattamolla after the last HR burn. No doubt the banksia seed is tempting!

Down below there was a huge shoal of very large fish!

Senecio lautus subsp martimus

And up above a White-bellied Sea Eagle, juvenile plumage

There is surely a story behind this grotto, looking out to sea

Australasian Gannet, juvenile

And way out to sea the whales were still breaching!

Tawny-crowned Honeyeater

New Holland Honeyeater

And, to finish, the odd Acacia!
